Tools to develop and improve the working environment

Working Environment Assistance and A Good Day at Work

The tools shed light on the factors that research shows are important for the working environment in your industry. The most common challenges are identified, and measures can be directed specifically at these. The best result is if management, employee representatives, safety delegates and other employees can work together and gain joint ownership of the working environment work.

The tools allow for different approaches. Choose the one that suits you best, or use them in combination.
